Growth of the use of the DDC in Europe

- Since the late 1990s, there have been many translations of the DDC (French, Italian, German versions of DDC21 and 22)
- Growth in the use of the DDC by European libraries
- Need for a more coordinated approach in making proposals for the development of the DDC
- Need to share experience in the use of the DDC
EDUG (European DDC Users’ Group) was created in 2007 at the inaugural meeting in Bern to:

• To promote professional interests of all users of the DDC in Europe by the exchange of experience in the use of the DDC;

• To coordinate proposals for the development of the DDC according to the bibliographic needs of European libraries and users in collaboration with the Dewey Classification Editorial Policy Committee (EPC) and OCLC;
• To encourage the development and dissemination of techniques, applications, software, documentation and procedures in the areas of translation and access;
• To encourage and promote co-operation in the translation of the DDC into European languages.

• Two categories of members: Institutional and Affiliated

Welcome

The Technical Issues Working Group of the European DDC Users Group (EDUG) monitors projects and develops use cases for the application of DDC to online information services in Europe.

The Group has a wiki restricted to members. If you wish to join the wiki, please contact Lars Svensson.

For more information about the Group, contact Gordon Dunsmuir.

Use the links on the left-hand side to access the main sections of the website.

The Technical Issues Working Group is conducting an online survey of applications of the DDC to help EDUG to plan its activities, including seminars, and determine priorities for technical development. The results will also be shared with DDC Online Computer Library Center, which owns, manages and maintains the DDC. Please take a few minutes of your time to complete and submit the survey questionnaire.
